

BARAHAVEN CONSTRUCTION LTD

> INTRODUCING THE BARAHAVEN TEAM . . .

Barahaven Construction Ltd was set up in 1980 and since then they have established a reputation for getting contracts completed on time and to top specification. They are a building construction company offering a wide range of services including plumbing, electrics, painting and bricklaying. They carry out many government contracts and work on behalf of various Housing Associations across Northern Ireland and various parts of the Republic of Ireland.

Barahaven have been members of Constructionline for over 5 years and Emily-Jane Quinn, Systems Manager at the company remembers their reasons for joining. 'It almost became a necessity to join Constructionline due to the ever growing competitive nature of the construction business within Northern Ireland. Since then we have seen various benefits and improvements at every level within our company'.

> WORKING WITH CONSTRUCTIONLINE . . .

The demand for various documentation and submission of forms, even at pre-qualification stage, makes each tender a resourceful and time-consuming process for contractors like Barahaven. Emily-Jane explains how her company goes about winning work. 'We apply for a lot of contract works that require Constructionline as a pre-qualification standard. This saves us a considerable amount of time, by not having to fill in the same repetitive forms. I have also found the customer service department to be very co-operative in answering all my enquires from filling in forms to getting information on lost passwords. Also, by posting out regular reminders for updating information as it expires, Constructionline helps us to keep our records up to date at all times, which has proved to be very helpful. I would recommend them without a shadow of a doubt'.

> EXPANDING THEIR BUSINESS . . .

Barahaven have now achieved industry recognition, simplified the tender process and reduced costs and workload. 'Being a member of Constructionline has brought a very positive stance to our company and has given us the confidence to develop into an even larger business. Feedback from clients, whom we carry out work for, has also been very welcome and has helped us to make improvements, enabling our company to go from strength to strength'.
