

Quick actions, quick wins

There are three quick-fix building safety areas where we commonly see companies fall down:

- whistleblowing
- anti-bribery
- EDI policies

Upload these to not only meet the Act's demands, but boost your business prospects too.

As the industry takes vital steps towards a safer future with the introduction of the Building Safety Act (BSA) legislation, we have worked with key stakeholders to create two optional BSA Assessments which are free to our Gold and Platinum members.

Our following assessments were identified as having questions which mapped directly into BSI Flex 8670 v3 (The BSA Standard). By completing the steps below, you will have the answers to these question sets mapped into the BSA Assessments automatically.

Check your membership level

Have you got the right membership level to meet your needs? If you're already a Gold or Platinum member, then make sure your PQQ answers are up-to-date.

Get Acclaim

A trusted SSIP accreditation - one of only several recognised and endorsed by UKAS. Because SSIP is a threshold standard, we are not aware of other schemes level of evidence which is why you need to complete the Acclaim questions.

Complete our Social Value Assessment

The Building Safety Act is not specific to Health and Safety, the main purpose of BSI 8670 as a standard, is to look at the behavioural aspects of an organisation.

Undertake BSA Assessments

Answer BSA-specific questions, which have been specially created in line with BSI Flex 8670 v3.

Modules

Building Safety

General Fire Precautions

Fire Risk Assessment

These can't be fully verified until June, when the updated Common Assessment Standard arrives. But by completing the BSA Assessments now, you've already done most of the work.

Answer updated Common Assessment Standard

In June, you can answer the new Common Assessment Standard questions. As we look to champion positive change, you will need to answer these additional questions to maintain a fully verified Gold profile.
